

Organismal Biology Day

Organismal Biology Day allows UM faculty and students along with members of affiliated research organizations to come together to build connections and communicate about our shared research interests.

Thursday, April 23

4:00 BEES Seminar – Jiminez Hall 0220 (Building 034)

Dr. Rich Lenski – Hannah Distinguished Professor, Michigan State University

“Adaptation, chance, and history:

Phenotypic and genomic evolution during a long-term experiment with bacteria”

5:30 Poster session and Social, Bioscience Research Building Colonnade

Send your poster title to BEESoffice@umd.edu by Wed., Apr 22.

6:30 Dinner, Bioscience Research Building 1103

Plus Awards Ceremony and celebration of finishing Ph.D. students

All are invited! RSVP to BEESoffice@umd.edu by Wed., April 22.

Visit www.bees.umd.edu for more information.

College of Chemical and Life Sciences, BEES, Entomology, Biology, Smithsonian Institution

